The Return Of Overlord

**This story is what I think would be good for after Zero Hour and im quite new to writing Fanfiction so please don't get angry if you think its no good. Also I don't own H.I.V.E but I do own any characters I make up in the process of this story.**_

Otto and his friends live in an active volcano hidden deep underground. Why? Because they are part of an organisation called G.L.O.V.E. They are in a school Called H.I.V.E training to become Super villains but this group are special, they are the best of the school and have saved the world several times already even though they are only into their fifth year. And its up to them to do it again, there will be death, love, and excitement in this jorney.

**Prologue ****

"Sir" said a small balding man wearing a lab coat and goggles "We are ready to test the prototype".

"Good. Lets see if it works" Came a computerised voice from the large screen that took up one wall of the large room.

They are in a lab filled with machines working but as soon as the voice spoke everything went silent as if he had willed them to.

The scientist press a series of buttons on his keypad and a whirling was heard from the centre of the room. Up stood a robot with the shape of a human but with no skin it walk forward and moved its arms and legs all the time being controlled be the keypad.

"It seems to be working perfectly sir" he said all his fears gone as the threat of failure appeared smaller. He had built this machine to accomodate his master until his mission was completed.

" good work on this Micheals its better than I would have expected a mere human such as yourself could have achieved" It was said as a compliment but meant as an insult.

Micheals connected a wire from the screen to the robot. As soon as it was in place a blue flash could be seen just for a millisecond shoot along it. Then the robot began to move on its own, its mouth opened and all that came out was a crackle.

"Sorry sir I haven't adjusted the speech software yet" he said furiously typing on the keypad "There try it now"

Once again the robots mouth opened but this time the words that came out would have sent a shiver up most spines "Finally I, Overlord have returned".

_**I hope to have more of this story up by the end of the week.
Please comment or review and also and ideas to advance on would be grateful. **_
